Hi Alex,

Sounds interesting.

The firm I work for actually did some work on the Downtown Streetcar project in the early phases.

Tuesday or Wednesday this week could work for a call, maybe Thursday too.

Let me know if either of those days work for you and good times on your side.

Thanks,
Aaron

Thank you Ana for making this introduction.

Mr. Aulenta,

The Lincoln Heights Community Development Foundation, with assistance from Barrio Planners Inc. has begun a comprehensive program to access the feasibility of reconstructing the streetcar system that once existed in Lincoln Heights, with connection to the proposed Los Angeles Streetcar in Downtown L.A., then continuing from Downtown to service South L.A.; effectively returning these portions of the once popular streetcar system to Downtown Los Angeles, with the the goal of stimulating economic development and revitalization of the communities this system will service.

I look forward to the opportunity to describe our proposal in further detail, and how we may work together in service of our communities. If you are available to meet in person or conference-call I and Frank would appreciate the opportunity. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Alex X. Villalobos

Hello Aaron

I hope you're well. I apologize, I'm probably flooding you with information this week. I wanted to introduce you to Alex Villalobos from Barrio Planners who is working on a proposed transportation project that would potentially include portions of University Park. They are in the process of sharing the conceptual design with key stake holders in order to receive feedback. At the same time they are assessing the actual feasibility of the project.

Alex will be able to share the project in greater detail when he meets with you and other groups in the neighborhood. I hope you two can connect on the project soon and I look forward to hearing the full feedback from this outreach effort.

Thanks!
